CLASS HISTORY

CLASS HISTORY

FIRST YEAR

On September 4, 1940, the Class of 1944 entered the Weymouth Training Station for Boot Training. With no little confusion, the "Boots" found their assigned barracks in the freshman wing, where they awaited orders.

After the first few days, the awe-struck "Boots" came out of their wonderment long enough to realize that the football team of W.H.S. had won the State Class C Championship. As a result of their brilliant playing under Coach Harry Arlanson, the whole squad was sent to Washington, D. C., for a few days' leave. The football team of the "Boots" boasted such stars as "Jim" Oteri, Harry Porter, "Herbie" Clapp, Harley Reagh, "Red" Livingstone, and George Hodgdon.

At this time, a new song, "Quarterback MacTavish", written by Officers Loud and Ghiorse, was introduced.

In a show given at the "rec" hall on December 9, Bruce, the Magician, amazed everyone with his clever sleight-of-hand tricks.

Later, on February 21, 1941, the station presented the annual musical revue, which was a great success as usual.

Toward the end of the year, when the officers of the station had been convinced that the trainees could help govern themselves, many were elected to aid, including Marian Hansen, Grace Gately, Mary Gately, and Fritz Smith.

In March, a series of radio programs, sponsored by the Gilchrist Company and called the "High School Quiz Tournament", was opened by five representatives from Weymouth Training Station against five from Camp Braintree. Among the Weymouth representatives were Shirley Holbrook and Thomas Pickett of '44.

Just before the "Boots" were given leave until their next assignment, Lorraine Casciani was named winner of the spelling bee, sponsored by the "Herald-Traveler." On June 19, 1941, the Class of '44 joyfully turned toward home and a much needed rest before their first sea duty aboard the cruiser "W.H.S. Cocksure."

SECOND YEAR

The light cruiser, "W. H. S. Cocksure," left port with a new crew from Weymouth Training Station, September 3, 1941. Just as all were getting their sea legs, Captain Whittle announced a new ranking system.

Guided by the signal flags of Waves Lorraine Casciani, Adeline McGlynn, Althea McCarthy, and Carolyn Cheney, the flotilla, which included the "W. H. S. Cocksure," had an undefeated football team.

To celebrate, the acting officers of the ship, Elsie Regan, Marian Hansen, Grace Gately, Mary Gately, and Fritz Smith, helped organize the Victory Dance. Later, the commissioned officers honored the team at a banquet.

On December 7, a startling report came over the wireless. The Japs had attacked Pearl Harbor. Immediately summoned to battle stations, the crew of the "W. H. S. Cocksure" was on the alert for the rest of the cruise.

To the ship's library were added many books, gathered in the Victory Book Campaign

The routine of sea life was broken by three entertainments, a musical revue in which Katherine Peters and Lorraine Casciani took part; the officers' play, "The First Lady;" and the flagship's play, "Ever Since Eve."

At this time, Harold Burgess was the winner of the spelling bee, conducted by the "Herald-Traveler."

Two of our leaders, Officer Kelly and Officer Mitchell, transferred to another branch of the service.

When, at last, the "W. H. S. Cocksure" reached port, all the officers and crew were granted a brief shore leave before reporting for duty on the destroyer "E. N. Hollis."

THIRD YEAR

On September 9, 1942, the shipmates of "The Cocksure", rested from their summer leave, boarded the destroyer, "E. N. Hollis", prepared for a new and difficult cruise.

The crew were assigned to their quarters and found the required duties posted in the cabins.

Both Officer Hale and Officer Gutterson had been assigned to different stations.

The football squad of the flotilla, including George Hodgdon, "Butch" Grillo, "Herbie" Clapp, "Jimmy" Oteri, Harley Reagh, "Harry" Porter, "Jerry"McHenry "Red" Livingstone, "Bill" Bryson, "Ken" Johnson, Bruce Hevenor, and "Pete" Wilson from our own ship, played a very successful season, losing only the Quincy game.

After passing their tryouts, Jacqueline Blunt, Lorraine Casciani, and Adeline McGlynn were temporarily elevated to the rank of signal officers in the Waves.

A very colorful and thrilling football dance was held in honor of the team in the recreation hall of the "E. N. Hollis".

Aboard ship a special course, Aviation, was offered to the crew.

Seaman 1st Class John Boyle was the champion in the spelling bee, conducted by the "Herald-Traveler".

The Victory Book Campaign was very successful, many hundreds of books having been collected aboard ship.

Calisthenics was supplemented to the duties of our able seamen.

Advancement of officers in order of rank included Robert McIntosh, Harold Leach, Marian Hansen, and Lorraine Casciani.

The track team of the flotilla received a special leave and a trip to New York as a reward for their outstanding performance during the year.

The new officers of the day were Elsie Regan, Charlotte Collyer, Effie Durant, Rita Ryan, and Lorraine Casciani.

The crew of the flag ship produced a play, entitled "Growing Pains", directed by Officer Helen A. Chase.

The Wrestling Team of the flotilla had a successful year, with Malcolm Robertson as New England champion.

Upon reaching port, the officers and crew of the destroyer left ship for a short leave, with orders to report in September for the final year of training aboard the battleship "U. S. S. Weymouth."

FOURTH YEAR

Eager to begin the last year of training, all shipmates reported for duty aboard the battleship "U. S. S. Weymouth" on September 8, 1943.

The football team of the flotilla had an undefeated, untied season and was the winner of the Class B championship. Waves Ruth Johnson, Lorraine Casciani, "Jackie" Blunt, and Adeline McGlynn were the signal officers while Elsie Regan was the leading drum major.

After the football season, Officer Arlanson was transferred to another service in the Navy, but was able to return for the annual Athletic Banquet held in January. At this time "Jerry" McHenry received the Athletic Council Award for the most improved player and Harley Reagh, the Oscar Horton Trophy.

The Victory Dance, held in honor of the team, took place on December 3.

The Christmas party was a pleasant break in sea-life. Entertainment was provided by Officer Brown as Santa Claus and by the orchestra of Seaman "Kenny" Johnson.

The Victory Book Campaign met with unusual success.

An Army training-plane was added to the equipment of the 'U.S.S.Weymouth' for use in the course, Aviation.

The crew welcomed back Officer Gutterson from a leave of absence spent in the Army, while Officer Loud left ship to give his services in the Medical Corps of the Army.

Jacqueline Blunt was the winner of the D. A. R. Scholarship.

During the cruise the examinations for the Army Air Corps, A-12, and V-12 were given, likewise the competitive examination for the Coast Guard Academy.

The track team won second place in the annual state tournament.

On March 6, the ship was entertained by readings, chief of which was "Life with Father."

The "Weymouth Highlights", a paper with the news of the flotilla, was distributed among the crew, who were to send copies to former members, now transferred to other ports. Waves Ruth Burgess and Jean Reidy were the editors in charge of the publication.

The play chosen for the annual presentation was "Woman of Fifteen," offered in May, under the direction of Officer Helen A. Chase.

The Senior Prom, one of the last activities while aboard the "U. S. S. Weymouth," was well attended and enjoyed by the entire flotilla.

Vocational School

FIRST YEAR

The Class of 1944 began Boot Training in special barracks at the Weymouth Training Station on September 3, 1941.

Soon after the beginning of this training, the echoes of World War II made emergency preparations necessary. Officer Joseph Whittemore was appointed Chief Air Raid Warden, assisted by Robert Burns and William Costa as messengers, and by Horton Norwood, Benjamin DelVecchio, Almond Durgin, Albert Rockwood, Robert Torrey, and Charles Sheppard as guards of certain posts.

Fourteen welding booths were installed in the automobile school for defense welders, where welding was taught under the direction of Training Officer Wolfe.

An exhibition of the work of all departments was held, all Trainees having taken an active part in the arrangement and planning.

Many of the "Boots" spent a great deal of time in assembling buckets, enough for the entire station; in construting cabinets for the appropriate tools, such as shovels, hose ,gloves, et cetera; and in making helmets for the members themselves.

Some time was given to baseball and basketball, with Benjamin DelVecchio, Fred Leone, and Joseph DeLuca among the players.

SECOND YEAR

After having passed Boot Training, the men had received a furlough from which they returned to the "U.S.S. Whipple" in the fall of 1942.

A new course, Aviation, was available for all those interested.

There were Commando tactics, with practice on the newly-constructed obstacle course, under the supervision of Officer Mahn.

The various workrooms boasted many new types of tools and machinery, including a wheel-alignment machine in the automobile shop, a drill press in the cabinet shop, and a folding machine in the print shop.

Sports, including basketball and baseball, received the usual support and enthusiasm.

Two of the ship's officers, Klay and Pollard, were transferred for the emergency period. Warrent Officer Klay was stationed at the Brooklyn Navy Yard as an instructor in Aviation Sheet Metal, while Officer Pollard was at Jacksonville, Florida.

THIRD YEAR

On September 8, 1943 the battleship "U. S. S. Weymouth" left port for the final year of training.

The ship boasted much new equipment in all branches of the work. In the field of aviation an airplane motor, propellers, and many instruments had been added. A die press and two grinding wheels had been installed in the Sheet Metal department.

As additional power had been needed, the electrical system was modified.

The crew held a special assembly in honor of Petty Officer Harry Caldwell, who had finished approximately twenty years of service aboard ship.

The basketball team had a fairly successful season with Allen MacDougall as manager and "Red" Villanova, "Fred" Leone, "Red" Crane, "Andy" Anderson, "Bill" Goodrow, "Benny" DelVecchio, and "Stan" Dolan as players.

On February 28, the printers visited the publishing house of Ginn & Company in Boston, also the Boston Linotype Print, Inc.

The cabinet-makers helped with the scenery of "The Star Spangled Revue."

The entire ship was entertained on March 6, by readings, chief of which was "Life with Father."

Joseph Fucci left school early to go to work while Charles Sheppard left to enlist in the Navy. However, both boys are planning to receive their diplomas.

The entire flotilla attended the Senior Prom, one of the last activities of the "U.S.S. Weymouth."

On the last day of the cruise, a prophecy for each member of the crew of the "U.S.S. Weymouth" was prepared, then tightly sealed in a flask.

An impressive ceremony was held when the flask was consigned to the sea, with the hope that some later date it would be found after all prophecies had been satisfactorily fulfilled.

CLASS PROPHECY

CLASS PROPHECY

IT was a summer day in the year 1954. On a beach somewhere down on the Cape, there were evidences of a picnic, in full swing, and in the thrashing, rolling blue water, proofs of that picnic, in the form of a group of young men and women cavorting merrily. They appeared to be the Prophecy Committee of the class '44, enjoying a reunion to talk over old times. Suddenly Jerry McHenry, who had been swimming out away from the others, returned to shore, rubbing his nose with one hand and holding a flask containing a rolled-up paper, in the other. The group pressed around him curiously. Jerry had removed the cork and was wonderingly shaking out what appeared to be a strange manuscript. It was covered on both sides with faded writing. At the top of the scroll were the words, "Class Prophecy of 1944, released from the U. S. S. Weymouth".

"Why," exclaimed one of the group, examining the closely-writen page, "those are our own prophecies on our senior classmates back in '44."

"So they are!" said another. She began to read the manuscript eagerly. "And see," she added, "how right our prophecies were." All our classmates have fulfilled our predictions for the future:

HIGE ALEMIAN—Hige is a well-known dentist in Weymouth. All his former classmates now go to have their teeth attended to by Dr. Alemian.

WALTER ANDERSON—"Andy" is one of the four famed "Hunters" . He ventured into Boston to obtain a hunting license, but received time after school.

MARGARET BALFOUR—Margaret is now an "angel of mercy." With her sincere kindness and loving care, we may be sure that her patients will have a much faster recovery.

PAUL BANDINI— Have you noticed that new outfielder for the Boston Red Sox? Yes, that's Paul. Here's hoping he gets through the season without any broken bones.

MILDRED BARNES—"Millie" is now a renowned Harry Conover model. She may be seen in any of the more famous fashion magazines; such as Vogue, Madomoiselle, et cetera.

BARBARA BARON—"Barb" is established as a private secretary to a New York firm, after completing a course at Fisher's Secretarial School.

DONALD BATCHELDER—Don has changed his mind completely about his future vocation. Instead of extending his knowledge of agriculture, he has graduated from an engineering school.

HELEN BATCHELDER—After majoring in Spanish at Simmons College, Helen is now enjoying many conversations on her tour in South America.

JOHN BECKFORD—John is now a "tiller of the soil". He owns a prosperous 100-acre farm out in the middle of Kansas.

KENNETH BELCHER—Kenny is having a hard job trying to find a soft job.

ANN BICKNELL—Ann, who was always interested in aviation, has become an aviatrix. Because weather conditions are so important to flyers, Ann has also studied meteorology.

DONALD BLANCHARD—Donald is America's number one typist, having won all speed records. He is now secretary to the President.

JACQUELINE BLUNT—As the head nurse of the Bellevue Hospital, New York, "Jackie" is a shining star to all. A young intern is continually visiting the main office. Now what do you suppose he wants?

CHESTER BOYLE—"Chet" has settled down on a small farm in Hingham with his wife and three children. He is now enjoying life as a true lover of the soil.

JAMES BOYLE—"Jim" is now a renowned literary critic, judging such famous novels as "Superman," "Batman," "Amazing Comic," "Torch" etc.

JOHN BOYLE—Mrs. Boyle received a letter from John two days ago. He has just returned from a secret service mission. John is one of Uncle Sam's expert army pilots.

WILLIAM BRYSON—"Bill" is now an "end" for the Chicago Bears. After his notable high-school football record, we see marked success at him in this field

RUTH BURGESS—Athough Ruth became experienced as a waitress at college, she is now experimenting with new recipes.

JOHN BURNETT—"Jack" may be seen at anytime lounging at his Faxon Estate. Having inherited a large fortune, he lives a gay and gaudy life. His parties are known the world over.

ROBERT BURNS—"Bob" has entered the fertilizer business. He owns a horse you know.

RITA CALNAN—Rita is now one of Washington's many secretaries; her efficient manner and pleasant way has won her great acclaim.

ALDEN CAMPBELL—"Red" is one of the best experts on Diesel engines. Working for the Navy, he looks quite "chic" in his uniform.

HOPE CAMPBELL—Hope is "down on the farm," keeping house for her husband in the Navy.

MARJORIE CARROLL—"Margie" is now a very capable nurse. Her former Nurse's Aide training has helped her a great deal.

MARIE CARUSO—Marie is now the personal secretary to the Governor of Massachusetts. How could he resist Marie's charm?

LORRAINE CASCIANI—Lorraine is probably the happiest of the class of '44. She is contented in her little home. She is using the education she received in her two years of college in keeping her budget.

JEAN CHALMERS—Jean is now a prominent nurse at one of the leading clinics. She specializes in caring for sick children.

IRENE CHASE—Irene has become an instructor in Home Economics, and during her spare time she prepares meals in one of the local city hospitals.

CAROLYN CHENEY—Carolyn finished a two years course at Colby Junior College. If one looks on her left hand, he would see a sparkling gem. The wedding bells are not far off.

MARY CHESSMAN—Mary is now a member of the teachers' staff in Weymouth High School. She is the year's best shorthand teacher.

THERESA CIPULLO—Theresa is now married to a grocery man from South Weymouth. You may walk by her store any day and see Theresa running her husband's business.

ANITA CLARK—Anita can now be seen industriously working in a large New York office. She is the boss's private secretary no less.

LILLIAN COLARUSSO—"Lill" is capably filling the job of managing the new Cain's. She supervised the building of this "swank" restaurant which takes the place of the lobster house that we remember in '44.

CHARLOTTE COLLYER—Charlotte, after a four year course at La Salle, took over her father's business. As head of this business, she expanded it so that now she is owner and president of a chain of stores.

VILDA COMEAU—Vilda is the owner of a very élite hairdressing shop on Forty-Second Street Vilda creates the latest hair styles for all the New York debutantes.

JOHN CONNOLLY—Fore River has Jack working harder than he ever worked before. However, he still finds time to draw plans for a nine room cottage. Could Jack be thinking of settling down?

FREDERIC COON—Fred has his own 100—acre farm. His wife and two children help him harvest the crops for market.

WILLIAM COSTA—"Billy's" favorite machine of the print shop is the linotype. He has the earnest ambition of becoming a speedy, efficient linotype operator after graduating from W.V.S. He obtained most of his knowledge of the machine from the printing instructors at the Trade School.

ROBERT COTTER—Robert is now running a night club, packing in the crowds with his jovial humor.

HERBERT CRANE—"Red" is now proprietor of a gym which is called "Crane's Reducing Agency".

GEORGE CRONIN—George is a flying instructor in the Army Air Corps. He loved his job until the Army decided to train women flyers. There is one particularly pretty student who has George in the clouds for hours. Is it because she just can't get the knack of flying?

MILDRED CUMMINGS — "Millie" is now a dramatic teacher at one of the leading colleges. She has just finished directing the play of "Romeo and Juliet" which was a great success.

MARION CURRIER—Marion, who always was a lover of dancing, now owns her own dancing school. People from all over the state go to her classes. We are wondering if it's Marion's dancing or her beautiful red hair which captivates them. We notice that most of her pupils are men.

ROBERTA CUSHMAN — Roberta now models for those colorful Maybelline ads. Her beautiful lashes have caused a great increase in sales.

RITA CYR—Rita is still employed as a secretary to a Weymouth lawyer. Recently, however, her engagement was announced in a local paper.

GLORIA DE LORENZO — Gloria is being courted by a very handsome sailor lately. He has a striking resemblance to Tyrone Power.

MARGUERITE DELORY — "Miggie" has been married for five years, and has a little girl who is the "spitting image" of her attractive Mom.

WILLIAM DELOREY—"Bill" is married and has moved to Maine, where he has one of the largest farms in the state.

ANGELA DE LUCA—Mr. Whittle is forever telling Angie that she can't teach children by pointing her finger at them. A certain person named Joe agrees with Mr. Whittle. Joe has been trying for years to get Angie to stop pointing so that he can put a ring on the third finger, left hand.

JOSEPH DE LUCA—"Joe" drives the General Flooring truck. He works at night and sleeps all day in school.

BENJAMIN DEL VECCHIO—"Beanie" has formed an all Irish football team. Amongst the players we have Joe DeLuca, Fred Leone, and Tony Villanova.

ETHELYN DENNISON—"Babe" is now modeling the latest fashions for "Vogue". Her charming personality insures her great success.

JOHN DESMOND—"Dessy" has started a wrestling club. He demonstrates with Doodlebug.

JOSEPH DESMOND—Joe has at last risen to the heights. After years (including his high school years) of diligently drawing "Axis sharpies" and vicious-looking Nazis, he has become a cartoonist on one of the leading Boston newspapers. He is making himself famous for his clever daily feature, a story of the days news in cartoons.

BEATRICE DEVINE—"Bea" is doing her bit for Uncle Sam. She's now a full-fledged Cadet Nurse.

VINCENT DI TULLIO—"Vinny" is now manager of a large corporation of barbers in and around Weymouth.

STANLEY DOLAN—"Stan" is editor of the "Hunters and Trappers' Guide." His experiences as a hunter during his senior year emphasized his qualifications as a man of sport.

VIRGINIA DONDERO—"Ginny" is now private secretary to a noted Boston newspaper editor. She was always interested in journalism and in secretarial work as well. It was hard for her to choose between the two for a career when she was back at W. H. S. Now she has successfully combined both to make an interesting life for herself.

JACUQELINE DONOVAN—"Jackie" is a famous comic strip artist. Her creations may be seen daily in one of the leading Boston newspapers. With all her study room experience, how could she help but become a success.

JEAN DORN—Jean is now a vocalist with a top ranking orchestra. She owes her success to her practicing on Academy Avenue.

DOROTHY DOWD—"Dot" has finally moved South to be with people who understand her Southern accent. With this accent she has acquired a cotton plantation owner. How did she do it?

EFFIE DURANT—Effie is now happily married to a sailor and keeping the home fires burning brightly.

ALMOND DURGIN—"Al" is going into the glass business. He blows out florescent lights for the Trade School.

BERTHA DUSSAULT — Bertha is living in Florida now. We hear she is teaching school there.

GEORGE DWYER—George is 'way above the rest of the class of '44. He's a captain in the U. S. Army Air Corps. He joined as soon as he graduated from W. H. S. and has remained in ever since. He helped put the Axis countries off the earth, and is now protecting our peaceful land from any attempts like that which started the old World War II.

CAROLINE ELKINGTON—The Army's gain is our loss, for Caroline is now serving with the WAC's overseas. Her cheerful nature helps her out of many a "tight spot" just as it did when at Weymouth.

JAMES FASINO — "Fuzzy" is now teaching "math" at Weymouth High. Much of his ability is accredited to his Naval Air Corps training

JULIO FERNANDEZ — Julio is now a professional boxer. He was pretty clever with his "dukes" (hands) when at gym. He has now taken over Joe Louis' title.

GARTH FISHER—Garth is now the general foreman of one of the nation's largest armories, which is known the world over for its many contributions to modern warfare.

JAMES FITCH—Jimmy is now an instructor in the Army Air Corps. His novel method of teaching is generally well accepted by his students.

GERALD FITZGERALD—"Jerry" is now a full-fledged captain in the United State Naval Air Corps. As a captain, he has many responsiblities.

ELAYNE FLATHERS—Elayne is now working on the Ration Board in the town hall.

DORIS FOLLETT—Doris owns a prospering dress shop in Rockland. Her visits to New York are not all on business.

MAE FOWLER—Mae is working her way up in Stetson Shoe Co. She is making very good progress, especially with the president's son.

ANTOINETTE FRANCOMANO — "Netta", as the proprietor of her service station, relaxes behind her desk as she watches her employees work.

EDWARD FREDERICKSON—"Ed" is looking for an orchestra in which to play the piano. He can play "I Love Coffee, I Love Tea".

ROBERT GARDNER—"Bob" has left the Army and is now working in a local bank.

CARL GAROFOLO—Carl is now manager of the Economy Grocery Store in North Weymouth. He finds great pleasure in taking stock in the back room after hours.

GRACE GATELY—Grace, after leaving many broken-hearted suitors behind, finally has settled down with a certain sailor. Guess who?

MARY GATELY—Mary is now a nurse, daily smoothing the foreheads of flustered patients. I wonder if the patients are really calm, cool, and collected?

CLAIRE GAUGHAN—Claire is now following the steps of her mother. She is a welder at Hingham Shipyard.

ESTHER GENTILE—Esther is an important factor in one of the Fore River Shipyard's offices. She is a competent typist there now.

MARIE GERRISH—Marie has a position as secretary at the Weymouth Trade School. Her experience was acquired from Weymouth High.

MURIEL GILLIGAN—Muriel is now happily employed at a small business office as stenographer.

ESTELLE GILLMAN — Estelle is the private secretary of one of Boston's most notable judges. One may see her taking notes at Boston's Supreme Court of Justice.

DONALD GLOSTER—"Scoot", former owner of "Vallas News", did such a tremendous business enough money to retire at the age of twenty-eight.

MARY GOOD—Mary now breeds many famous dogs. Her prized Irish Setters have walked off with many blue ribbons.

WILLIAM GOODROW—"Bill" is passing out cigars. His hen had baby chicks. On his farm he is still interested in his poultry projects.

ROBERT GOSSET— The little professor sees all knows all, but says nothing.

ELAYNE GREENE—Elayne has opened a restaurant and is doing a thriving business. Her husband is the butcher who makes the delicious and tempting meat dishes. Friends are invited free.

FREDERICK HACKETT — Hard work was always lacking in Fred's life. When his father retires, he plans to take over the prospering real estate business.

JANE HACKETT—Jane is now following her aunt's footsteps, as she is a teacher of office practice in the Weymouth High School.

JEAN HANSEN—Right this minute Jean is probably sitting on the boss's knee. She is the competent secretary of Mr. White, manager of Best's and Co., New York.

MARIAN HANSEN—Marian is now secretary to the Superintendent of Fisher's Secretarial School. Is it a wonder the man is always smiling and jovial? With Marian around how can he help but be happy!

ELIZABETH HARTE—"Betty" is private secretary to Mr. Whippersnapper, a local retail merchant. Her experience was, of course, received in Weymouth High School.

JAMES HASTIE—We see "Jim" in a local department store. He is trying to reach the position as manager. Right now he is still janitor. Keep trying!

MARIE HAVILAND — Marie, after graduating from Simmons College, is now employed as a laboratory technician.

RACHEL HAYDEN—"Raye", a private secretary, does not have to order flowers for the boss's wife. The tall, handsome boss is Raye's fiancé.

JEAN HEVENOR—Jean is attending a medical school in the West. She is going to be a doctor, and a very fine one, we believe.

JUSTIN HILL—Justin, a chaplain in the Army in the second World War, is now a minister. In his quiet way, he is still preaching words of truth just as he used to do in high school.

ROBERT HILL—"Bob" is now an engineer, a trade which he learned in the Navy. He is married to a certain Braintree belle named Margie. As expected, there is also a little Robert.

MELVIN HINES—"Mel" was the class treasurer who came from Rockland. He owns a '43 Chevrolet instead of the "34"in which he used to come to school. For some reason or other he still ventures down East Weymouth to see that certain girl.

SHIRLEY HOLBROOK—Shirley is owner and manager of the Holbrook Skating Rink. Her friendliness and charm are appreciated by all—and especially by the sailors.

JOSEPH HOLLAND— "Joe" is now proprietor of the Holland Dairy. Each day his business is expanding as he has a milkmaid to help him.

ALEXANDER HOLT—"Alex" may be seen anytime roaming along the Pacific coast line. As a beachcomber, his cares are few and adventures many.

AUDREY HORSCH—Because of Audrey's early experience in the laundry business, she operates a laundry of her own. The slogan is "Quick Pick-Up and Delivery."

EVELYN HUDON—Evelyn is now a dressmaker. She also does the housekeeping for herself and her family of five. It is quite a job, but she'll do all right.

ROY HUGHES—"Roy" is now an executive of Weymouth Light and Power Company. He has achieved a great deal since he graduated.

LENORE HULTEEN—Lenore has achieved her ambition, and is the head dietitian at the Weymouth Hospital.

ROBERT HUNTOON—"Bob" is now chief director of chemistry and science at Northeastern University.

MARION HUSBAND—"Betty" is one of Boston's leading hair stylists. She always wanted to be a hair dresser.

RONALD JENSEN—"Jenny" is now running an escort bureau. Many of the girls of the Class of '44 are very good customers.

ALBERT JOHNSON—"Al" is now head of the First National meat department. He started from the ground up. "Al" obtained his first job on the meat counter when he was a senior in high school.

KENNETH JOHNSON—"Kenny" has a chance to show off those shoulders. You'll find him amid a bevy of bathing beauties. He's now a life guard at Nantasket Beach.

RUTH JOHNSON—Ruth is a well-known fashion designer. She is the one who has fashioned those lovely creations worn by our Hollywood celebrities.

GERTRUDE KALAGHAN—"Gertie" Kalaghan is now co-owner of the Quincy Market. We understand that the other owner is handsome, In '43 he used to be in the Navy.

EDWARD KARAIAN—Edward always enjoyed working in a laboratory. Now he has one of his own in which he experiments.

ELIZABETH KENNEDY—After graduating from high school, Elizabeth entered training under the Nurses' Cadet Corps. She has completed her training and has now begun her career as a nurse.

ANN KEYSER—Ann has made quite a success of the modeling business. She is now Sheridan's best model. A gentleman of the Class of '41 has taken a sudden interest in girls' clothing.

MARGARET KNIGHT—Margaret is now doing office work for a business firm in Boston.

HAROLD LEACH—Harold is now owner of a large manufacturing concern. He is still worrying over a certain ex-high school girl named Dot.

MARION LEIGH—Marion now has a responsible position. She has charge of all the welders at Fore River.

FREDERICK LEONE—Fred is now the physical training teacher in place of Mr. Mahn.

CHRISTINE LINDQUIST—Christine is typing for one of the biggest firms of Boston. She will work up the ladder, because she still works in that quiet efficient manner of hers.

ROY LIVINGSTONE, Jr. — "Red" has a very responsible job. He is managing the Weymouth Landing Five and Ten. He got the job after winning a contest for getting to work on time. He came 1000 days without being late.

BARBARA LOPAUS — "Barbie", who had so many interests in different branches of the armed services, had difficulty in choosing her many interests in different branches of the occupation. After finally deciding, however, to become a nurse, she's a successful one.

ARTHUR LOVELL—As an F.B.I. agent, "Chuck" is tracking down dangerous criminals. Excitement and variety, especially blondes, are the highlights in his life.

ISABEL LOVELL—Isabel is superintendent of Nursing at the Quincy Hospital.

RUTH LOVELL— Ruth is now a teacher in good old Weymouth High, applying those rules of readin', ritin', and 'rithmetic that she learned there herself not so long ago.

JOHN MacDONALD — John, after being decorated many times in the Air Corps, has stepped into civilian life as manager of the Weymouth Landing First National Store.

ROBERT MacKINNON—"Bob" is sailing the Seven Seas. He thinks that is one way of steering clear of the opposite sex. Lately his ship has been docking in Boston Harbor. Is that little brunette who runs toward him as he walks through the gate his cousin?

MILDRED MAGEE—"Millie" is getting along very well at that office job in town. You remember she started in there back in '43.

RONALD MARAGET—"Ronnie" has been tester of parachutes. However, he is thinking of quitting because one didn't open.

FRANCES MATHEWSON — Frances is now modeling bed jackets at a well-known clothing store in Quincy.

ALTHEA McCARTHY—Althea is a bookkeeper for an insurance company in Boston.

ELIZABETH McCARTHY — "Betty" has now taken over Gracie Allen's former position with George Burns. As usual she has them "rolling in the aisles."

JOAN McCARTHY—Joan has taken off her Marine's uniform in exchange for an apron. She is now "chief cook and bottle washer" in the white cottage on Broad Street. Her husband loves her cooking and her children—well, they just love her.

SYLVIA McCARTHY—"Sue" is carrying on for Vera Vague since the great star's retirement. Touring army camps with Bob Hope, she is proficient in the art of man-hunting.

CLAIRE McDONOUGH—Claire is proving herself to be a very efficient secretary. Her great love for her school was probably the reason she came back to be Mr. Whittle's little helper.

ALLAN MacDOUGAL—"Doodlebug" is running a men's department store.

ADELINE McGLYNN—Adeline is now the gymnastic director at one of America's leading girls' colleges. Her pupils don't mind a few aches and pains, for as they say, "She's one 'swell' person."

GERALD McHENRY—"Jerry" is still winning games for Weymouth, but now his coaching ability is being shown. His most important player is a redheaded boy named Gerald McHenry, Jr.

ROBERT McINTOSH—"Bob" is a "pro" golfer of the South Shore Country Club. As the club is mostly composed of women now, one can always find Bob around somewhere.

WILLIAM McKINNEY—"Bill" has won fame. He has become one of America's best roller skaters. Wing Ding Son!

HOPE MEISSNER—After Hope left W. H. S., she went to business school. She now works in a bank in Boston. Any samples, Hope?

BERNARD MERTEN—"Bernie" is still taking it easy. They say he has the best place in Fore River in which to sleep.

JOYCE MILLER—Joyce is now settled down as the wife of a minister. She is still the featured soloist in the church.

WARREN MINASIAN — Warren has set the country aflame with his sense of humor. He has taken over Bob Hope's show.

ERIC MYRBECK—Eric's musical talent has developed, and he has his own orchestra featuring his own "sax".

MYRTLE NASH—"Myrt" has received a secretarial degree and is now using her talent to manage the business of a well known orchestra. Her past experience with musicians has proved of good advantage.

RICHARD NELSON—"Dick" has blown his way to fame with his trumpet. He is now a leader of one of the nation's favorite dance bands.

CLASS WILL

IT was early in the morning in mid-June in the year A.D. 2944. A group of children were playing in a field adjoining an old house dating from the dark years of 1943-1944. The leader of the group had the brilliant idea of exploring the dark, foreboding halls of the old weather-beaten house.

And so, being at that mischievous age when any adventure to their morbid little minds, they stole into the house, anticipating any deviltry they might perform.

It was an average-sized house for the time in which it was built, and as the little brats ran through the building ripping, and tearing things, apart to their hearts' content, one of the more observing in the group noticed that a brick in the fireplace was lose. So, for the novelty of it, he "bashed" one one of his companions on the "dome" with it.

The leader, hearing the commotion, ran eagerly to the scene, to see if he couldn't maim someone with a weird-looking object called a "Louisville Slugger." Upon reaching the fireplace, he noticed a small document, all parched and covered with soot. He immediately lunged at it, unfolded it, and read the following:

We, the students of Weymouth High School, in the year of our Lord, 1944, in a spirit of fun, do bequeath the following:

To Room 211 we leave another coat close, so that Maiss White won't tire herself early in the morning trying to jam the doors shut.

To Room 212 we leave an automatic note-producing machine, to spare Miss V ning at 8:30 each morning.

To Room 215 we leave a reliable and conscientious member for future Class Will Committees. It appears that one may be needed.

To Room 216 we leave some special desks, to accommodate those students who report after school.

To Room 217 we leave more dictionaries for the future stenographers so they won't have to wait in line with only a few minutes left to finish their transcription. Attention Miss Norris.

To Room 218 we leave a heater that will really heat both sides of the room, so that Miss Chase won't catch cold walking from one side of the room to the other.

To Mr. Whitttle we leave a crackle-neutralizer for the amplifying system.

To Mr. Lyons we leave an honorable student police force, to round up reluctant students.

To the juniors we leave the fervent hope that peace will have come to the world before the start of their scholastic year, to eliminate many difficulties which have faced the past three graduating classes.

To the sophomores we leave some cheer leaders who will follow in the footsteps of Lorraine Casciani.

To the freshmen we leave our radiant personalities and the ability to carry on the traditions of Weymouth High School.

To the in-coming freshmen we leave some patience to put up with the rush and clamour of the lunch room.

To the future students of Weymouth High School we leave twelve new Lovell buses to replace those now in use.

To the school we leave a football coach who will uphold the glory that Coach Arlanson established for our team.

Vocational School

To Mr. Whipple we leave a pair of squeaking shoes, so that the freshmen can hear him cruising around.

To Miss Fortier and Miss Marie Gerrish, our two competent secretaries, we leave our thanks for their presence. It lends a change to the scenery.

To Mr. Whittemore we leave a new specially reinforced eighteen-inch rule for swatting pupils.

To Mr. Sherwood we leave a new trunk-lid for his car.

To Mr. Nelson we leave a new car to put under the horn of his present conveyance.

To Mr. Bacon we leave another smart senior to take care of his Ford.

To Mr. Parker we leave some handy freshmen to change window glass.

To Miss Rideout, the first girl to enter the Trade School, we leave an honorary degree for completing her first year.

To Mr. Boland we leave a detective to find missing drawing instruments.

To Mr. Khyn we leave a book of double T stamps for his long daily journey.

To Mr. Duncan of the Printing Department, we leave the address of the draft board so that he can have a little manpower in the shop.

To Mr. Mahn we leave a pair of M.P.'s to keep the "Commandos" in order.

To Mr. Bryan of the Auto Repair Shop, we leave a large painted sign saying:

"You Drive Them In . . .
We Push Them Out"

To Mr. Clark we leave some whistling bombs to get back at the seniors.

And to the "Sinking Sun" we leave a place so low in the ocean that it will take more than a salvage boat to raise it.

HIGH HONOR ESSAYS

HIGH HONOR ESSAY

"What Hath God Wrought?"

By

THOMAS WALTER PICKETT

AMONG those who have benefited mankind by their labors stands a man of true Yankee ingenuity, Samuel Morse, the inventor of the telegraph. This year, 1944, being the one hundredth anniversary of the first public demonstration of the telegraph, it seems appropriate that we acknowledge the work of this man who strove for the advancement, not the degradation, of civilization. Today, in the world of telephone and radio, the importance of the telegraph seems to sink into insignificance; nevertheless, the telegraph was the first instrument to harness electricity for practical everyday use. The telegraph gave incentive to men who, in later years, were to give to the world all the electrical appliances which we today find so convenient.

When the memory of Bunker Hill was still strong in the minds of the townspeople of Charlestown, Massachusetts, there, on the twenty-seventh of April, 1791, Samuel Finley Breese Morse was born, the first son of Mr. and Mrs. Jedediah Morse. Jedediah Morse was a parson in a Charlestown church, "passing rich on five hundred and seventy dollars a year," while Mrs. Morse was an energetic, loving, and devout wife and mother. Thus in such an obscure atmosphere did Samuel Morse make his entrance into the world.

At the age of six, Samuel received his first education in a dame school near his home. He displayed no brilliant tendencies toward education, but he did show a slight artistic capability. At this early age he drew promising portraits, and decided then to make art his future profession. In school, the witch-like face of his teacher often gave him an unrestrainable urge, and the resulting portraits of "teacher" caused his eventual estrangement from school, much to the consternation of his parents. Therefore, Samuel was sent to Andover, with orders to apply his capabilities toward some useful end. At Andover, he faithfully complied with his parents' orders, and revealed his heretofore hidden talents.

After six years at Andover, at the age of fourteen, Samuel was qualified to enter Yale College. At Yale, Samuel found the lighter side of college life far more interesting than the tedious translation of Homer; consequently, he spent five years at Yale, instead of the usual four. It was at Yale that his interest in the mysteries of electricity was first aroused. This contact left a profound impression on his mind, when, at the age of nineteen, he went back to his father's parsonage in Charlestown.

Back in Charlestown, Samuel Morse pursued his ambition to be an artist. He painted several landscapes and portraits, but, since his works availed him nothing, he decided to go abroad to study art the next year. Therefore, in the year 1811, he found himself in England. Because of the current of war feeling between England and the United States at that time, Morse found himself unwelcome in England; nevertheless, he remained there during the days of the War of 1812. In 1815, Morse went to France to continue his studies of art, but he soon found that Europe was far from a peaceful spot; consequently, he returned to America that same year.

In Charlestown again, he opened his own art studio, with the intention of earning his livelihood by painting portraits. Lack of business, however, forced him to become a travelling artist. His wanderings took him eventually to New Hampshire where he met and soon married Lucretia Walker. Unfortunately, his married life came to an untimely end eight years later, with the death of his wife.

To forget his sorrows, Morse went abroad again. He travelled through the art galleries of France and Italy, still determined to become a great artist. These travels lasted until 1832, at which time he decided to make another attempt at art in the unappreciative New World. But he was destined to do something greater.

On shipboard during the voyage home, Morse met Dr. Jackson, with whom he discussed, among other things, electricity. Some innovations which Dr. Jackson demonstrated to him aroused that old interest of his days at Yale. He forgot art completely; he thought only of devising an instrument by which words could be sent with the aid of electricity. For the remainder of the voyage, Morse spent his time with himself. It was then that he devised his system of dots and dashes, which is now known as the International Morse Code.

Back in America again in the year 1832, Morse took up lodgings in New York City. During the next six years, he devoted most of his time to the development of an instrument which he called the "telegraph." Occasionally he would draw portraits to save himself from starvation. As time went on, he became so completely absorbed in his work that often he would work for two or three days without food or rest. Then he depended on gifts from friends as his only means of sustenance.

By 1838, Morse had completed a crude apparatus which could send his dots and dashes. In that year he made the acquaintance of Alfred Vail, who was intrigued by his idea, and, from that time on, Vail was Morse's partner. This partnership probably saved the telegraph, for Morse could scarcely have continued alone, being fatigued by overwork and undernourishment. It happened that Vail's father was an influential, well-to-do businessman; thus, this backing aided Morse immeasurably.

In 1843, the partners gave a private demonstration of their telegraph to Vail's father. Being amazed, and immediately overcome with thoughts of the possibilities of the telegraph, Mr. Vail rushed to Washington to get an appropriation from Congress of the construction of a government telegraph line. A year passed before an incredulous and derisive Congress would consent to what they thought a foolhardy undertaking. But at last the progressive element won out. A telegraph line was to be set up between Washington and Baltimore.

Finally, on the twenty-eighth of May, 1844, Morse was ready to send his first message over a public line. The first message was sent by Morse at Washington to Vail at Baltimore. Morse selected for the first message these Biblical words: "What hath God wrought?" This was truly exemplary of Morse's character and principles; he abided by his family's motto: "In God, not arms, I trust."

Today, one hundred years later, we have at our disposal the results of Samuel Morse's efforts,-better, easier, and quicker means of cummunication. Other inventors following in his footsteps have expanded the telegraph into the innumerable devices we now use. In the future, as it has been in the past, every new invention will be basically a tribute to the father of electrical communication, Samuel Morse. Always will this man's life be an example of how everlasting glory is achieved by one who aids his fellow man, not by one by one who seeks to destroy, and how "the good is not interred with his bones."

HIGH HONOR ESSAY

"Greater Love Hath No Man"

By

TAYLOR ARMSTRONG STEEVES

THE phrase "from log cabin to White House" is often used in speaking of the unusual ascension of one of our greatest Presidents from humble birth to the highest office of our land. We might just as well employ the phrase "from slave hut to research laboratory" to describe the equally amaz ng rise of George Washington Carver, one of America's greatest scientists and finest citizens.

In the year 1860, a tragic page in the history of our nation was being written. The United States swayed precariously on the brink of a Civil War, a war which threatened to make the stars and stripes only a distant memory. Yet in the midst of this tragedy, fear, and chaos, one spark of hope for the future was lighted as, on a modest plantation in southwestern Missouri, George Carver was born.

In his early childhood, George demonstrated the qualities which profoundly affected his later life. The first of these was a desire of learning—learning which could answer for the youth the question "Why?" whenever he saw something that he could not explain. Accompanying this thirst for knowledge was a feeling of inward confidence that whatever others had done, he, himself, could do. In the Missouri woods and fields, George first discovered his great love and fascination for nature; and in a tiny, secluded clearing he continually experimented with his beloved plants, hoping someday to understand what and why they were. Love of nature, however, did not come alone, for with it there was a longing to re-create the natural beauties. Thus, George Carver first tried his hand at painting, with homemade stains on scraps of paper and wood.

At the age of ten, his desire for learning brought him the first of the many rebuffs that he was to receive in life, for George was colored and the best schools turned him away. Discouraged but not defeated, he received his early training only after wandering throughout eastern Kansas and western Missouri, stopping whenever he found a school that would admit him.

A similar situation arose when he tried to enter college. Turned away by one small institution, he spent two weary and fruitless years on a homestead in western Kansas before applying for admission to Simpson College in Iowa. Much to his satisfaction, he was admitted and allowed to begin his study of painting. For the first time since he had left home, he felt himself really accepted by society.

Although he made great progress in his study of art and showed real talent, George was not completely satisfied. He believed that God had put him upon this earth to accomplish some great task. He somehow knew that his mission was to raise his people from their pitiful poverty, squalor, and degradation. It was then that he made the noblest decision of his life. He laid aside his brushes and palette, which could bring him only personal gain, and turned toward Iowa State College, to study Argicultural Science.

Carver applied himself diligently to his studies, and soon distinguished himself as a collector and botanist of rare ability. Upon graduation he was offered a position on the faculty of the college as assistant botanist, and, seeing a chance to perfect himself in his chosen field, he willingly accepted. Within a year he was recognized as an authority upon plant diseases; moreover, his mycological collection was almost unparalleled.

Several offers of better positions came to Professor Carver, but he turned them all down; they did not afford the opportunity that he sought. Then there came a communication which he could not resist. Without hesitation, he left his circle of admiring friends and his fine equipment to set out for strange fields. In 1881, the great negro educator, Booker T. Washington, had established at Tuskegee, Alabama, an institution to train young negroes in industry, as well as in academic subjects. It was to head a newly-added agricultural department that George Washington Carver gave up the fame and respect which he had been enjoying to face the insults and degradation which he knew he would receive in the South.

As he travelled southward, Carver was saddened by the scenes of poverty which he saw everywhere; he knew that he must devote himself to the task of driving "King Cotton" from his long undisputed domain. He began to spread his ideas through the neighboring farming district, but the one-crop system was firmly entrenched.

It soon became evident that action, not words, would convince the stubborn farmers that only by devoting part of their land to livestock, garden, and field crops other than cotton could their prosperity be restored. From the Tuskegee farm, Dr. Carver appropriated a tract of ravaged and eroded land, typical of the once rich farms of this district. Decayed leaves from the forests, animal fertilizers, and any other organic material that could be found were spread upon the fields, and legumes were planted. In the space of four years, that "sub-marginal" land produced amazing crops without any commercial fertilizer. More important, the means to effect this improvement was within the grasp of all the farmers. Then Dr. Carver organized the Farmers' Institute, a society of Southern negroes, to spread his progressive ideas. They turned to diversified agriculture, made use of the many new plants he had developed, and, as a result, prospered.

Dr. Carver was ever anxious to find domestic products to take the place of expensive materials which farmers were forced to buy. The first result of his research was a clay wash which the farmers could produce themselves from the products of the hillsides at practically no cost. They added color to many a dreary cabin and, with the color, came hope. Several attempts were made to commercialize these products, but each time Dr. Carver intervened. He was not interested in money.

Waste on the part of the struggling farmers angered Dr. Carver; and, as its ardent foe, he developed hundreds of products from the refuse of agricultural and forest crops; such as synthetic marble from sawdust, wall board from peanut shells, along with many others.

Somewhere in the dim future, he faintly discerned a great alliance of science, industry, and agriculture—science to show agriculture how to produce what industry needed and to show industry how to use what agriculture produced. In preparation for this, he began to break down the crops which he advocated. From the peanut, his favorite, he developed products ranging from milk upon which cream rose and from which butter and cheese could be produced, to synthetic rubber; over two hundred in all. From the sweet potato came flour, tapioca, syrup, and other commodities. He had truly opened the way for industry and agriculture to join hands in lifting the South out of its poverty.

Money and honors meant little to Dr. Carver. Though he had many offers to work for fabulous wages, he preferred to stay at his laboratory at Tuskegee, the school he loved so well. He was elected a Fellow of the Royal Society of Arts of Great Britain, but received more personal satisfaction when the government, at last taking an interest in the Southern farmer, adopted his theories of diversified agriculture and put his inexpensive domestic products into widespread use. The praise and fame heaped upon him did not make a profound impression. He had his reward in the knowledge that he had helped the impoverished Southern farmer, both white and black.

Dr. Carver's work was done. He had raised his people to a higher level than even he dreamed possible. Frederick Douglass had led his people out of slavery; Booker T. Washington had struck from them the shackles of ignorance; George Washington Carver taught them how to overcome their poverty. He had lived to see his hopes realized. Now he was ready to go; and, in 1943, he departed for land where, as the negro spiritual says, "Sabbaths have no End."

Truly all men may say of him, "Greater love hath no man than he who devotes his life to the service of his people."

REFLECTOR

Because of the difficulties brought about by the war, we have published only three regular issues of the Reflector this year, instead of the usual four. However we have tried to catch in these three issues a true reflection of the ideas and activities in Weymouth High School in 1943-44. From the material submitted to us, we have endeavored to select those articles which represent a true cross-section of our school life.

To Mr. Prescott Brown, Miss Helen Chase, and Mr. James Steele, our faculty advisers, and Mr. Harry Duncan, instructor of the Printing Department, many thanks for your kind help and patience.

We hope that next year's staff will be successful in producing bigger and better Reflectors and that this will be the last Reflector published while our country is at war.

Third row: R. Sevigny, A. Lovell, J. Boyle, C. Boyle, A. Johnson, Second row: J. Connolly, E. Gilman, M. Carroll, C. Elkington, R. Burgess, M. Caruso, Miss Chase. First row: J. Hansen, A. Sprague, E. Regan, A. Bicknell, J. Olive, H. Cummings.

SENIOR PLAY

On May 19th, seventeen members of the Senior Class presented Alice Chadwicke's three act comedy, "A Women of Fifteen." Miss Helen Chase directed the production.

The cast was as follows:

Jane Sheridan	Elsie Regan
Thomas Sheridan	Richard Sevigny
Mary Sheridan	Mildred Cummings
Lilybud	Estelle Gillman
Nancy Sheridan	Jean Hansen
Henry Warren	Albert Johnson
Barbara Drew	Joan Olive
Dot Varnum	Ann Bicknell
Vera Bailey	Carolyn Elkington
Aunt Helen	Agnes Sprague
Lyman Bosworth	James Boyle
Donald Mayberry	John Connolly
Robert Grant	Chester Boyle
Sophia Thayer	Ruth Burgess
Lloyd Maxon	Arthur Lovell
Lorraine Joyce	Marjorie Carroll
Promptress	Marie Caruso

First row: E. Kosarick, I. Fallgren, Mr. Calderwood, E. Paulson, A. Sheehan. Back row: W. Montgomery, W. Mills, R. Nelson, R. Casey, D. Beckes, C. McKenzie, R. Lyons.

ORCHESTRA

Although it has few members, our orchestra has shown itself a capable organization. The members have provided accompaniment for the Musical Revue, the Monday Club Play, and the Senior Play. The orchestra which is under the direction of Mr. James W. Calderwood, is made up of the following students: Richard Nelson, Robert Lyons, Carleton McKenzie, Robert Casey, Albert Sheehan, Dean Beckes, Everett Kosarick, Elizabeth Paulson, Ingrid Fallgren, William Montgomery, William Mills.

It seems certain that those members returning will, along with the newcomers, enjoy another successful season.

This year the band made its usual snappy appearance at all the home football games. Under the direction of our beloved "Jimmy" Calderwood, they added considerable "pep" and color to the glory of our victorious team. Richard Nelson has served as the student bandmaster and Shirley Sheppard, the secretary. The band has made several appearances and at graduation will accompany the Senior Class, singing "Stout Hearted Men" and "Strike up the Band."

We wish the returning members of the band good luck, and hope that the organization will continue to grow in ability and in numbers as it has this year.

First row: J. Blunt, M. Caruso, R. Burgess V. President, M. Cummings President, A. DeLuca, Miss Freeman Second row: J. Ralph, I. Weisslinger, R. Lovell, J. Reidy, R. O'Neill, C. Burnett, Third row: R. Jensen, M. Sherwood, B. Sampson, A. McGovern.

BOOK CLUB

THE monthly meetings of the Book Club in which book reports were given and short discussions and entertainments enjoyed were under the direction of Miss Freeman. There were fourteen members, including both juniors and seniors. Among the most interesting gatherings was that at which Miss Petrucci was a guest. In the fall the Club attended the Book Fair in Boston.

The officers for the year were:

President.....Mildred Cummings

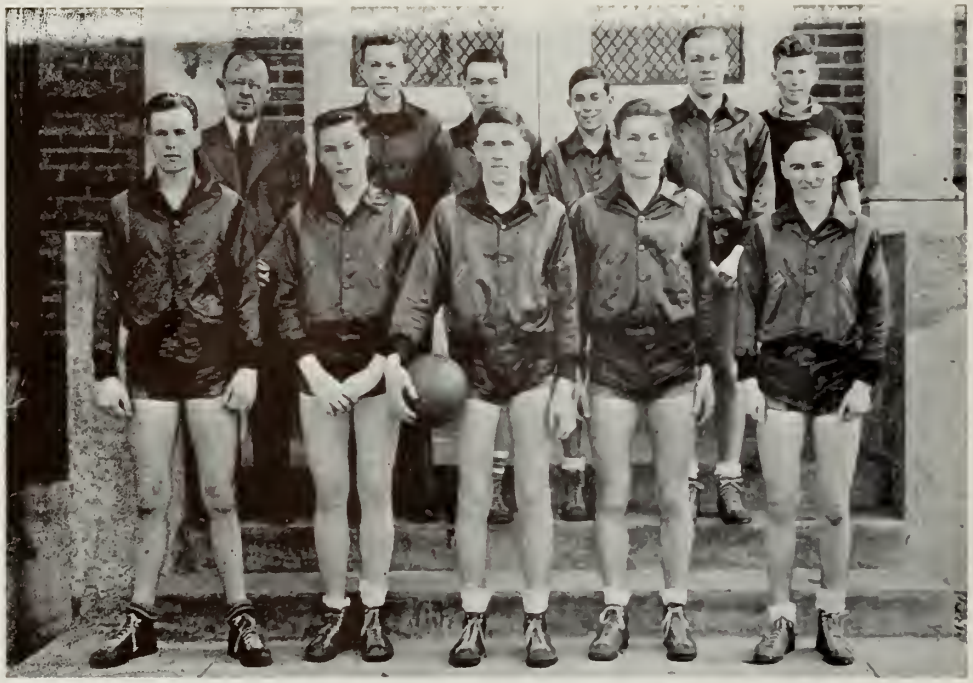
Vice-President.....Ruth Burgess

First row: W. Bryson, H. Reagh, J. Oteri, R. Stein, E. Dalto, J. Butler, J. Murry. Second row: B. Hunt, G. McHenry, G. Gould, H. Porter.

FOOTBALL

After the winning streak had been broken by Quincy last year, Mr. Ghiorse predicted that the team would start a new w nning streak that would surpass all others. Upholding this promise to the utmost, Coach Arlanson's Maroon-and Golds went through another unbeaten season. It was with deep regret that the team heard that Mr. Arlanson had to leave for the Navy, to accept a commission. The boys played spectacular football, and proved that they had the power even in the clinches. The scores were as follows:

Weymouth—7;	Braintree—0
Weymouth—7;	Arlington—0
Weymouth—20;	Belmont—7
Weymouth—20;	Brookline—0
Weymouth—20;	North Quincy—0
Weymouth—25;	Quincy—0
Weymouth—18;	Brockton—12
Weymouth—33;	Plymouth—0
Weymouth—40;	New Bedford—0
Weymouth—8;	Dedham—6
Weymouth—35;	Hingham—19



1st Row: Baglow, W., Sheehy, A., Coffey, D., Bongarzone, A. Gorman, W. Back Row: Mr. Gannon, J., McIntosh, R. (Mgr.), Daniele, A., Caruso, R., Delorey, A., Caulfield R. (Mgr.).

BASKETBALL

The basketball team was also inflicted with the insoluble problem of using green men. With hardly any returning veterans, Coach Gannon had to pick a large group of freshmen and sophomores. Considering their age and experience in high school playing, these boys did very well. As with the other teams, there is just cause for a strong hope for next year's team. If the boys return next year, Mr. Gannon will have a good backbone of young veterans.

First row: W. Baglow, P. Wilson, F. Slattery, H. Porter, H. Reagh, R. Dominy, A. Dewey, Second row: J. Hopey, R. Liva, G. Brady, M. Hynes, F. Sullivan, P. Bandini, R. Amabile, Mr. Delahunt Coach, Third row: J. Pecararo, J. Kezer, O. Syberts. J. Burke, B. Muten, R. Petze, A. Shuky, J. Guidice, R. Gifford (Mgr.).

BASEBALL

Although the baseball team had only a few returning veterans, Coach Delahunt has welded the boys into an above-average team. They won most of their games, and have played real baseball. Although there are several seniors on the team, there are enough underclassmen on the team to give Coach Delahunt hope of a good team next year also.

WRESTLING

The wrestling team had but three matches this year, and all three of them were with private academies. This was the most encouraging fact of the year, for it gave the boys, all of whom were lower classmen, invaluable experience. There are high hopes for next year, since most of the candidates will return with a little experience to rely on.

TRACK

Although hindered by the fact that the majority of his team was made up of green freshmen and sophomore boys, Mr. Page's track team had an enviable record.

The outstanding highlight of the year was the winning of the second place position in the State Meet in Boston Gardens. The boys did very well in their own meets, winning several. The freshman and sophomores gave Mr. Page justifiable hopes of another excellent team next year.

TRADE BASKETBALL

NOTWITHSTANDING a late start and abbreviated practice periods, the team got off to a good beginning when it defeated Somerville Vocational in the opening game under the guidance of "Tweedy" Alstedt, who did the coaching after putting in a day's work in a defense plant.

Following are the names of those who played on the teams and the scores of the games:

First team: J. Lynch, B. Del Vecchio, C. Boyle, F. Leone, W. Anderson, T. Thurston, R. Kjellman.

The scores were:

Weymouth V. S. 33	Somerville	21
Weymouth V. S. 22	Everett	36
Weymouth V. S. 25	Somerville	36
Weymouth V. S. 28	Everett	41
Weymouth V. S. 27	Holbrook	58
Weymouth V. S. 15	Holbrook	31

Second team: H. Crane, J. Colombi, R. Culilvan, K. Hegar, D. Shores, S. Dolan, J. Pepe, W. Goodrow, T. Villanova, J. McClusky.

The scores were:

Weymouth V. S. 7	Somerville	12
Weymouth V. S. 13	Everett	9
Weymouth V. S. 16	Somerville	21
Weymouth V. S. 8	Everett	14
Weymouth V. S. 18	Holbrook	24
Weymouth V. S. 13	Holbrook	31

HOW TO MAKE YOUR FUTURE SECURE

• Whatever your plans for the future may be, you will always have a feeling of security if you have had thorough secretarial training. A good secretary is always in demand. Last year, placement calls for Fisher girls were greatly in excess of available graduates.

• For 41 years New England has recognized the Fisher School as a center for superior secretarial training. At either the fine old residence overlooking the Charles River, which is the Boston School, or in the homelike atmosphere of the Winter Hill School, Fisher courses combine cultural and technical subjects. In an academic atmosphere, young women quickly learn secretarial skills. Catalog on request.
